

Ranching for the Seasons: An Ecosystem Perspective

Tuesday, December 7th, 2021 | 2:00pm - 4:00pm PST

A herd is the critical link between healthy soil and healthy habitat.

Prescribed grazing can rejuvenate forage while enhancing ecosystem diversity. Join us for a virtual panel discussion on the benefits of prescribed grazing from the perspectives of ranchers and researchers!

Presenters

- Russell Chamberlin, Rancher and Co-Owner of Chamberlin Ranch
- Peter Fahnestock, Resource Soil Scientist at USDA-NRCS
- Dr. Pelayo Alvarez, Audubon Conservation Ranching Initiative, Audubon California
- John Austel, Rancher and Owner of 4J Horse and Livestock

The 2018 CDFA Healthy Soils Demonstration Project is funded by the California Climate Investments program. This event is a part of a Discussion Series on Conservation Practices in partnership with UCCE San Diego

Interested in more ranching events?

SAVE THE DATES!

January 2022 - Presentation from the SD Fire Safe Council about using targeted grazing to mitigate wildfire risk, featuring guest speaker Brittany Cole Bush.

March 2022 - Field Day at Rancho Jamul to see prescribed grazing in action!

Stay updated by signing up for our Farmer & Rancher Newsletter, or contact us below!

RCD Greater San Diego County | ag@rcdsandiego.org | 619-562-0096

