

E. coli O157: What is it, how does it spread, and can it be prevented?

August 23, 2022

FREE WORKSHOP

E. coli outbreaks continue to occur on California's Central Coast. Join us to hear as experts discuss the prevalence of E. coli in livestock versus wildlife, food safety, the California Ag Neighbor Initiative, E. coli vaccine for range cattle, supplements, and more!

Register Here

1432 Abbott St,
Salinas, CA 93901

August 23, 2022
8:30am to 12:30pm

jazmine@californiamsf.org

+1 (831) 583-8847

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA
Agriculture and Natural Resources

UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA

Healthy Soils Program

CDFA OFFICE OF ENVIRONMENTAL FARMING & INNOVATION

UC DAVIS

CMSF

CALIFORNIA
MARINE SANCTUARY
FOUNDATION

Hear From

- > Rob Atwill - Veterinary Medicine Extension, UC Davis
- > Annette Jones - Animal Health, CDFA
- > Natalie Krout - Inspection Services, CDFA
- > Gaby Maier- Veterinary Medicine Extension, UC Davis
- > Michele T. Jay-Russel, Western Center for Food Safety, UC Davis
- > Todd Calloway, University of Georgia
- > Royce Larsen, UCCE, SLO, Monterey and Santa Barbara County
- > Devii Rao, UCCE, San Benito, Monterey, Santa Cruz

Moderator :

- Jazmine Mejia-Muñoz, California Marine Sanctuary Foundation